Outline of the presentation

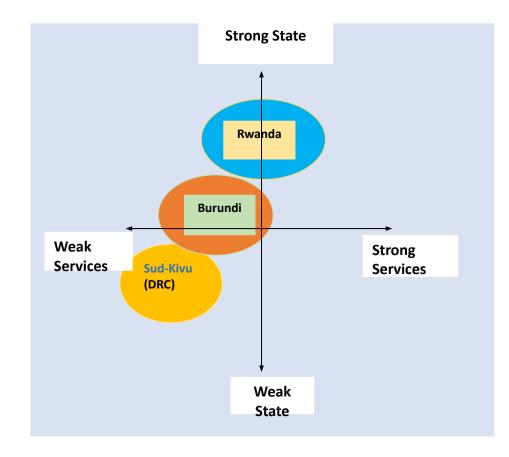

- Background
- Community-based psychosocial approach
- EMB approach at SDC
- Key activities
- Dealing with resistance
- Outcomes

Background

- 3 decades of armed conflicts in the region; high level of fragmentation and destruction of community cohesion
- Cultural similarities in the three countries; patriarchal norms
- Numerous initiatives and national progress, especially on women rights (Rwanda)
- Services for individuals are not sufficent to address the needs of survivors

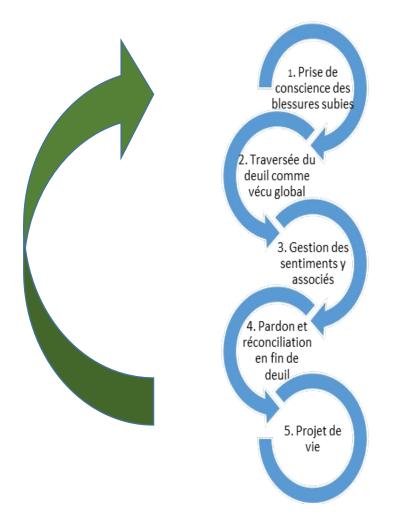

The psychosocial regional programme

- 4 phases (2011-2023) : 9 Mio CHF/ each phase of 3 to 4 years
- Implemented in 3 countries: Burundi, Rwanda, South-Kivu (DRC)
- National and local NGOs as implementing partners
- 3 axes of intervention:
 - Community level
 - Individual services
 - Policy dialogue

Steps of "healing"

Confederaziun svizra

Characteristics of psychosocial aproach

Individual approach

The abuse and wounds are understood as individual suffering/attributed to the individual

Holistic case management: medical, legal, psychosocial and socioeconomic is focused on the direct survivor

The role of the professional: "Expert" with the right knowledge to take action

Community based approach

The abuse and wounds are understood as suffering by the collective/attributed to the collective

Homogeneous and heterogeneous groups share experience and build solidarity

The role of the professional: advisor or facilitator, also a member of the healing process

Target groups, victims and perpetrators

Individual and vulnerable beneficiaries; aim to support the victim and punish the pepertrator

Target groups, victims and perpetrators: Survivors, perpertrators and other actors and members of the community are involved. Different level of victimisation supporting them to become agents of change

Why working with men and boys?

To question and critically analyze the inequality and injustice between the genders; address harmful practices 1. Reduce gender -based violence

2. Ensure the physical, psychological and socio-economic recovery of people in communities

3. Promote social justice for all/equitable enjoyment of rights

Engaging with Men&Boys (EMB) to fight SGBV

 Men's places Men's needs and concerns Men's responsibilities and spaces for change Youth Men as fathers 	 Men to understand oppressive effects of gender inequalities on women Understand that they must not conform gender- focus
 Laws and politics to include men and boys Necessity for global commitment & accountability Scaling up needs: institutions 	 Method- logical - concerns Duration, frequency and scale of intervention Multi-dimensional and integrated Complementarity with women's efforts

Building blocks of the work with Men and Boys

- Build competencies of NGOs/operational partners
- Create a thorough understanding of the context
- Reference to legal framework and institutional actors
- Identify community resources and actively use them!

Keys activities of the projects

A set of activities which complete each other with the aim to influence both - the individual and the community as a whole

- Accompanying men and boys within the group and at individual level (e.g. Indashyikirwa)
- Capacity building through awareness and sensitization (trainings, briefings, workshops)
- Safe spaces for dialogue for specific groups of men and boys
- Advocacy

How to address resistance to change

Why resistances are frequent in working with men and boys

- Men have not learned to question themselves
- Position of power and privilege
- Fear of being labeled as weak and gender non-conforming
- \Rightarrow Resistance is way to manage fear and insecurity and an effort to stay in control

Resistances are opportunities

- Important to understand the significance and value for the men
- An opportunity and entry point to understand better the inner world of the men involved in the dialogue
- On this basis, it is possible to reflect on oneself

Success factors for the work with men and boys

- Focus on the men as persons, their experience and their life
- Define a proactive role for them in and with the community
- Use the resources in the community (reflection and dialogue groups, role models)
- Use legal framework and work with institutional actors
- Work simultaneously on transformative processes (individual-communities)

Sufficient time for these processes is a sine qua non condition to achieving transformational change
